BYOB – Kick off Meeting in Birmingham on October 2014

The first transnational meeting for the BYOB project took place in Birmingham on October 9-10th, 2014. In this occasion the partners introduced themselves about their work and their interest areas, sharing suggestion and ideas about the project and its methodology.

Bridging to the Future, the BYOB project coordinator, described the project background and the BTFJCN methodology, including real life examples and case studies of adult people that had the courage to start their own business becoming successful entrepreneurs.

BTFJCN is very practical and starts with an audit of the person's employability QEAS (Qualities, Experiences, Attitudes and Skills) and it emphasises much on personal qualities and development (i.e. self-confidence).

The partners also identified potential uses of this methodology in their own countries and circumstances.

BTFJCM could:

- Become an integral component of existing university and VET courses and programmes.
- Be used by private businesses to develop enterprise and entrepreneurial QEAS.

- Support migrant population into productive economic activity.
- Offer a pathway for individuals to be economically independent and not to require state support or money.
- Become a programme for business incubators.

The next meeting will be held in Poland on May, 2015.
